Satsang

Nonduality and Beyond

Who are you really?
Are you your body,
mind, and personality?
Or are you the Spacious Awareness
in which they appear?

Questions like the ones on the cover point us to the Infinite Oneness and Presence that is the True Source of Peace, Happiness, and Love.

Satsang means
"gathering together
to inquire into our

True Nature, and to express our Highest Truth"

It is an opportunity through dialogue and inquiry to discover that the Love, Peace, and Happiness we have been seeking are available here and now. Satsang is a chance to finally rest from all seeking - struggle and to experience directly the completeness-perfection of Being.

Being here really is just the invitation to rest as Being. There is nothing you have to do. It is not an invitation to become. You will not be scrutinized, your actions compared with those of others. That's just unicorn food. Let your river flow as it pleases. Simply observe and recognise that all is unfolding spontaneously when that inner journalist - the ego, is exposed as a myth.

I'm not inviting you to learn this, but to actually recognise this in your seeing, here now, directly. Otherwise you may leave here with you may call 'a better understanding' but it will not last. There's no one there to understand, there's just understanding, which flourishes in you as peace, joy, love and contentment.

When we look with the 'I' ~ We dream.
When we look for the 'I' ~ We awaken.
